

Psalms 134:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The LORD that made heaven and earth bless thee out of Zion.

Analysis

The psalm concludes with priestly blessing: 'The LORD that made heaven and earth bless thee out of Zion.' This verse shifts from imperative (vv. 1-2: you bless the LORD) to petition/promise (may the LORD bless you). The description 'LORD that made heaven and earth' emphasizes God's comprehensive creative power and authority - the Creator of all blesses His people. This title appears repeatedly in Psalms (115:15; 121:2; 124:8; 146:6), especially in blessings. The phrase 'bless thee out of Zion' indicates blessing flows from God's dwelling place. 'Out of' (min) suggests Zion is source from which blessing emanates. The shift to singular 'thee' may address each individual pilgrim departing Jerusalem or may function as collective singular (each representing all). This benediction sends worshipers out with confidence that the Creator-God who dwells in Zion will bless them. Proper worship (blessing the LORD) results in received blessing (LORD blesses His people).

Historical Context

This follows pattern of Aaronic blessing (Numbers 6:24-26) where priests pronounced divine favor on people. The connection between Zion (God's dwelling) and blessing reflects covenant theology - blessing flows from God's presence among His people. As pilgrims returned home from festivals, this benediction assured them God's blessing accompanied them despite geographic distance from temple.
