

Psalms 26:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But as for me, I will walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me.

Analysis

The resolution 'But as for me, I will walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me' combines personal commitment with humble petition. 'I will walk in integrity' expresses determination for holy living. Yet immediately the psalmist prays 'redeem me, and be merciful'—acknowledging that even covenant faithfulness depends on grace. Reformed theology emphasizes that perseverance is both human responsibility and divine gift. We walk in integrity because God redeems us and shows mercy, not to earn redemption.

Historical Context

Throughout Scripture, divine imperatives ('walk in integrity') combine with divine promises ('I will redeem'). God commands what He enables, and sanctification proceeds through both human effort and divine empowerment (Phil. 2:12-13).
