

Psalms 27:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the LORD.

Analysis

The promise 'And now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me' anticipates vindication. Lifted head symbolizes honor and victory. The result: 'therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the LORD.' Deliverance produces worship. Reformed theology emphasizes that salvation's purpose is doxology—God saves us to worship Him. The repetition 'I will sing, yea, I will sing' expresses exuberant joy that cannot be contained.

Historical Context

Victory in battle required thanksgiving sacrifices at the tabernacle. David's practice of celebrating God's deliverances through music and sacrifice established Israel's worship patterns. Testimonial worship encouraged the community.
