

Psalms 29:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The voice of the LORD breaketh the cedars; yea, the LORD breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

Analysis

The imagery 'The voice of the LORD breaketh the cedars; yea, the LORD breaketh the cedars of Lebanon' depicts divine power over nature's strongest elements. Lebanon's cedars were ancient symbols of strength and permanence. God's voice shatters them effortlessly. Reformed theology sees omnipotence—nothing in creation resists God's power. If His voice breaks cedars, how much more should humans submit? This psalm emphasizes that power demonstrated in nature extends to all reality.

Historical Context

Cedar of Lebanon was prized for temple construction (1 Kings 5:6) due to strength and durability. These trees represented human achievement and natural strength. God's sovereignty over them demonstrated His supremacy over all earthly power.
