

Psalm 29:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The voice of the LORD maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forests: and in his temple doth every one speak of his glory.

Analysis

The description 'The voice of the LORD maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forests: and in his temple doth every one speak of his glory' connects divine power over nature to worship. God's voice affects birth ('hinds calve') and revelation ('discovers forests'). The result: universal doxology in God's temple. Reformed theology sees providence producing praise—recognizing God's hand in all events leads to worship. Nature's response to God's voice models human response: awe and adoration.

Historical Context

Hinds (female deer) represented vulnerable beauty. God's sovereignty extends to their reproduction—He numbers every birth (Ps. 147:9). Stripping forests bare revealed hidden things. All creation testifies to God's glory, prompting worship.
