

Psalms 31:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

In thee, O LORD, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed:
deliver me in thy righteousness.

Analysis

The declaration 'In thee, O LORD, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness' expresses covenant confidence. Trust in God provides security against ultimate shame. The petition for deliverance appeals to God's 'righteousness'—His covenant faithfulness and moral perfection. Reformed theology emphasizes that God's righteousness guarantees believers' security—He cannot break His promises. Those who trust Him will not be ultimately disappointed (Rom. 10:11).

Historical Context

David's trust in God sustained him through decades of persecution and uncertainty. His confidence rested on God's character (righteousness), not circumstances. This became a model prayer for all who face opposition.
