

Psalm 35:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Let them be as chaff before the wind: and let the angel of the LORD chase them.

Analysis

Chaff represents worthlessness and vulnerability—the useless husks blown away during threshing. This imagery appears throughout Scripture (Psalm 1:4, Matthew 3:12) to depict the fate of the wicked. The 'angel of the LORD' may refer to the Angel of the LORD (Christophany) or divine agents executing judgment, emphasizing that God personally superintends the destruction of evil while the righteous need not lift a finger.

Historical Context

Ancient threshing involved tossing grain in the wind to separate wheat from chaff. This agricultural image would resonate powerfully with an agrarian society, vividly depicting how easily God scatters His enemies.
