

Psalm 38:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth.

Analysis

But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth. David's response to slander (v.12): strategic silence. As a deaf man (קְחֵרֶשׁ, kecheresh) he refuses to hear accusations; as a dumb man (מַלְאֵךְ, ke'illem) he withholds self-defense. The double simile emphasizes deliberate restraint.

This silence fulfills wisdom literature's counsel (Proverbs 26:4) and prefigures Christ's response before accusers: 'He opened not his mouth' (Isaiah 53:7). David doesn't argue, retaliate, or defend—not from weakness but from trust in God's vindication (v.15). Silence before human courts while appealing to the Divine Court demonstrates profound faith.

Historical Context

In ancient honor-shame cultures, public accusations demanded public response or one's reputation was ruined. David's refusal to defend himself would appear as admission of guilt or stunning weakness. Yet he chooses the way of faith over the way of self-justification—a radical trust that God will speak on his behalf.
