

Psalms 40:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Many, O LORD my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered.

Analysis

This verse celebrates the innumerability of God's works and thoughts toward His people. The Hebrew mah rabbu ('how many') expresses wonder at divine abundance. God's thoughts (machshavot) toward us are purposeful plans, not random impulses. They cannot be 'reckoned up in order' because they exceed human capacity to catalog divine grace.

Historical Context

The theme of God's countless mercies appears throughout the Psalter, reflecting Israel's corporate memory of deliverance from Egypt, wilderness provision, and establishment in the promised land.
