

Psalms 51:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.

Analysis

The confession: 'For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.' David uses three words for sin: pasha (transgression, rebellion), chata'ah (sin, missing the mark), and avon (iniquity, twisted perversity). The sin is 'ever before me'--not hidden, excused, or minimized but constantly confronted.

Historical Context

Written after Nathan confronted David about Bathsheba and Uriah (2 Samuel 12), this psalm models genuine repentance: owning sin without excuse or blame-shifting.

Study Questions

1. What does keeping sin 'ever before me' contribute to genuine repentance?

2. How do the three Hebrew words for sin capture different aspects of moral failure?
