

Psalms 57:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They have prepared a net for my steps; my soul is bowed down: they have digged a pit before me, into the midst whereof they are fallen themselves. Selah.

Analysis

The image of enemies falling into their own pit demonstrates the principle of lex talionis (law of retribution) operating under divine providence. Proverbs repeatedly affirms this pattern (Proverbs 26:27), fulfilled paradigmatically in Haman's hanging on his own gallows (Esther 7:10). This reveals God's poetic justice—the wicked's schemes rebound upon themselves.

Historical Context

Ancient warfare involved literal pits and snares to trap enemies. David's experience included evading Saul's traps and seeing Saul repeatedly endangered by his own schemes (e.g., Saul endangered by Philistines while pursuing David, 1 Samuel 23:27-28).
