

Psalms 58:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance: he shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked.

Analysis

The righteous rejoicing at vengeance is troubling to modern sensibilities but reflects covenant theology—God's people celebrate His justice. 'Wash his feet in the blood of the wicked' is hyperbolic battle imagery, not literal instruction. This anticipates Revelation 19:1-3 where heaven rejoices at Babylon's fall, showing that holiness delights in evil's defeat, not from cruelty but from love of justice.

Historical Context

Ancient Near Eastern victory accounts often used hyperbolic language about conquest. This psalm's imagery reflects the reality that God's justice includes judgment, not merely redemption, and His people rightly celebrate righteousness vindicated.
