

Psalms 58:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Their poison is like the poison of a serpent: they are like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear;

Analysis

The serpent imagery evokes the Eden temptation, identifying wicked leaders with Satan's character. The 'deaf adder' (cobra) that refuses to hear the charmer represents judicial hardening—those who persistently resist truth become incapable of responding. This anticipates Jesus's quotation of Isaiah 6:9-10 regarding those who have eyes but cannot see (Matthew 13:13-15).

Historical Context

Snake charming was practiced in ancient Egypt and Palestine. The image of an adder refusing to respond to the charmer's music despite normally being susceptible illustrates willful rebellion—not ignorance but hardened resistance to known truth.
