

Psalms 6:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity; for the LORD hath heard the voice of my weeping.

Analysis

Sudden shift from lament to confidence - the Lord has heard! This pattern (lament to assurance) is common in psalms and reflects prayer's transformative power. 'Workers of iniquity' identifies enemies by their character and actions. David's command 'Depart from me' shows renewed authority and confidence. The certainty that God 'hath heard' (perfect tense in Hebrew) indicates assurance of answered prayer, not just hopeful wishing. This foreshadows Jesus's words to evildoers in Matthew 7:23.

Historical Context

The sudden change from verse 7 to 8 likely reflects either a prophetic assurance received during prayer or the psalmist's liturgical movement from lament to trust. This psalm's structure taught Israel that God hears the prayers of His afflicted people, encouraging persevering prayer. Christians find this pattern in Christ's experience - from Gethsemane's anguish to resurrection triumph.
