

Psalms 65:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

By terrible things in righteousness wilt thou answer us, O God of our salvation; who art the confidence of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are afar off upon the sea:

Analysis

God answering 'by terrible things in righteousness' reveals that divine deliverance often comes through fearsome displays of power. The phrase 'God of our salvation' identifies YHWH as deliverer. His saving acts extend to 'all the ends of the earth,' anticipating gospel's universal reach. 'Confidence of all the earth' shows creation's dependence on the Creator.

Historical Context

The 'terrible things' likely reference exodus deliverance, conquest of Canaan, or David's military victories—all involving God's fearsome intervention. These historical acts ground Israel's confidence and testify to watching nations.
