

Psalms 7:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If I have rewarded evil unto him that was at peace with me;
(yea, I have delivered him that without cause is mine enemy:)

Analysis

David continues his oath of innocence, specifically denying returning evil for good and affirming he spared his enemy. The parenthetical statement 'I have delivered him that without cause is mine enemy' likely refers to David sparing Saul's life (1 Samuel 24, 26). This demonstrates Christ-like love of enemies and refusal to take personal vengeance. Romans 12:17-21 commands the same principle. David's restraint when he had power to destroy his enemy proved his righteousness and foreshadowed Christ's refusal to call down legions of angels.

Historical Context

David's sparing of Saul when he had opportunity to kill him was unprecedented in ancient warfare. Kings normally eliminated rivals immediately. David's mercy demonstrated covenant faithfulness and trust in God's timing for establishing his kingship. This became the paradigm for how God's people should treat enemies.
