

Psalms 73:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

How are they brought into desolation, as in a moment! they are utterly consumed with terrors.

Analysis

The wicked's destruction comes suddenly: 'How are they brought into desolation, as in a moment! they are utterly consumed with terrors.' Instantaneous judgment contrasts with long prosperity—years of ease end in moment of terror. 'Utterly consumed' emphasizes completeness; nothing remains. This describes both temporal judgments (sudden calamities) and eternal judgment (the rich man's immediate torment in Luke 16:23). Security built on wickedness is illusory; terror inevitably follows.

Historical Context

Biblical examples include the flood, Sodom's destruction, Korah's earthquake, and Herod's worms (Acts 12:23). Each demonstrates how sudden divine judgment can be after extended rebellion.

1. How does the suddenness of judgment warn against presuming on God's patience?
2. What 'terrors' await those who die in their wickedness without Christ?
3. How should the certainty of sudden judgment shape evangelistic urgency?
