

Psalm 74:15

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thou didst cleave the fountain and the flood: thou driedst up mighty rivers.

Analysis

The psalm celebrates God's power: "Thou didst cleave the fountain and the flood: thou driedst up mighty rivers" (Hebrew atah vaqata ma-yan va-nachal atah hovashta nahrot eytan). God "cleaves" (opens) fountains and "dries up" floods—sovereign control over water. This recalls Moses striking the rock (Exodus 17:6, Numbers 20:11) and Israel crossing the Red Sea (Exodus 14) and Jordan (Joshua 3). The impossible becomes possible when God acts. Nature obeys its Creator.

Historical Context

Water miracles demonstrated God's supremacy over creation. Ancient Near Eastern myths depicted water deities (Yam, Tiamat) opposing creator gods. The Bible counters: Yahweh sovereignly commands all creation, including water. Jesus's water miracles (walking on water, calming storm, water to wine) demonstrated divine authority. Revelation 21:6 offers "living water" freely—ultimate satisfaction.

Study Questions

1. How do God's past miracles (biblical and personal) strengthen faith for present "impossible" situations?
2. What "mighty rivers" (obstacles) need God's intervention in your life?
3. How does Christ as the source of living water (John 4:10, 7:37-38) fulfill these images of God's provision?
