

Psalms 75:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are dissolved: I bear up the pillars of it. Selah.

Analysis

God continues: "The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are dissolved: I bear up the pillars of it" (Hebrew namogim eretz v-khol-yoshveha anoki tikanti a-mudeha). "Dissolved" (Hebrew mug) describes melting, chaos, instability. Yet God declares "I bear up the pillars"—He sustains cosmic order despite apparent chaos. The metaphor of pillars (from ancient cosmology) pictures God holding creation together. The verse contrasts earthly instability with divine stability. When human structures collapse, God's governance remains unshaken.

Historical Context

Ancient cosmology envisioned the earth resting on foundations or pillars (Job 38:4-6, Psalm 104:5). This language appears throughout Scripture not as scientific description but theological affirmation: God sustains creation. Colossians 1:17 states Christ "holds all things together"—the same truth. Hebrews 1:3 describes Christ "upholding all things by the word of his power."

Study Questions

1. How does God "bearing up the pillars" while earth "dissolves" provide stability amid personal or cultural upheaval?
2. What false foundations (career, relationships, wealth) have you seen dissolve, and how did you respond?
3. How does Christ upholding all things by His word demonstrate that ultimate security rests in Him alone?
