

Psalm 76:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The stouthearted are spoiled, they have slept their sleep: and none of the men of might have found their hands.

Analysis

The psalm describes God's victory: "The stouthearted are spoiled, they have slept their sleep: and none of the men of might have found their hands" (Hebrew eshtalelu abbirey-lev namu sh-natam v-lo-matzu khol-anshe-chayil y-deyhem). "Stouthearted" (bold warriors) are "spoiled" (plundered). "Slept their sleep" is euphemism for death. "Men of might" (warriors) cannot "find their hands"—paralyzed, helpless. God renders powerful enemies powerless. Military might means nothing when God opposes.

Historical Context

This likely describes Sennacherib's army destroyed by God's angel (2 Kings 19:35-37, Isaiah 37:36-38). 185,000 Assyrian soldiers died overnight without Judah fighting. Pharaoh's army similarly perished at the Red Sea (Exodus 14-15). These demonstrate that God "makes wars to cease" (Psalm 46:9). Revelation 19:11-21 depicts Christ's return conquering enemies effortlessly.
