

Psalms 77:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I will meditate also of all thy work, and talk of thy doings.

Analysis

I will meditate also of all thy work (וְהִגִּיתִי בְּכָל-פִּעֻלָּךְ). Hagah (הִגָּה) means to meditate, muse, ponder deeply—often with the connotation of verbal repetition (Psalms 1:2, 119:15). Po'al (פָּעַל) means work, deed, or action. The psalmist commits to contemplating the totality of God's historical acts. This verse parallels verse 11 but adds the dimension of verbal reflection.

And talk of thy doings (וּבְעֵלִילוֹתֶיךָ אֲשִׁיחָה). Siach (שִׁיחַ) appears again (vv.3, 6)—but now directed not inward in complaint but outward in testimony. Alilah (עֲלִילָה) means deeds, acts, or works (often mighty acts). The movement is significant: from troubled meditation (v.3) to redemptive proclamation. Memory becomes testimony; private wrestling becomes public witness. This anticipates the psalm's climactic recital of the exodus (vv.13-20).

Historical Context

Biblical meditation differs from Eastern mysticism—it is not emptying the mind but filling it with God's revealed acts and words. The imperative to 'talk' (declare, recount) God's works runs throughout Scripture: "We will not hide them from their children, shewing to the generation to come the praises of the LORD" (Psalm 78:4). Christian preaching and testimony continue this pattern—proclaiming what God has done in history (Acts 2:22-36).
