

Psalms 78:50

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He made a way to his anger; he spared not their soul from death, but gave their life over to the pestilence;

Analysis

He made a way to his anger; he spared not their soul from death, but gave their life over to the pestilence. Pālas (פָּלַס, "made a way") means to level a path or prepare a road—God cleared the way for His anger to reach its target without obstruction. His wrath wasn't impulsive but directed, purposeful, like a highway constructed to its destination.

"Spared not their soul from death" uses nepēš (נֶפֶשׁ, "soul")—the whole living being. Dāḥer (דָּחַר, "pestilence") refers to plague or epidemic, possibly anthrax or similar livestock disease that spread to humans. God didn't prevent death but deliberately handed them over to it—judicial language of abandonment to consequences.

This verse explains divine mechanics: God's anger doesn't randomly destroy but precisely targets. He "makes a way" for judgment like an engineer designing demolition. It's terrifying yet reveals God's sovereignty—nothing happens accidentally, and His wrath accomplishes its full purpose without collateral mercy for the unrepentant.

Historical Context

This likely refers to the livestock plague (Exodus 9:1-7) and possibly disease affecting Egyptians during the boils plague (Exodus 9:8-12). The cumulative effect was mounting death toll, preparing Egypt for the final plague—death of the firstborn.

Study Questions

1. What does God "making a way for His anger" teach about His sovereignty over judgment?
2. How should the reality of God not sparing souls from death affect evangelistic urgency?
3. In what sense does God "give people over" to their chosen path, and what does this reveal about His judgment?
