

Psalms 80:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Turn us again, O God of hosts, and cause thy face to shine;
and we shall be saved.

Analysis

The refrain intensifies: "Turn us again, O God of hosts, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved" (Hebrew Elohim Tseva-ot hashivenu v-ha'er paneycha v-nivvasha). This adds "of hosts" (Hebrew Tseva-ot)—commander of heavenly armies. The escalation from "God" (v.3) to "God of hosts" (v.7) to "LORD God of hosts" (v.19) intensifies the appeal. Military language invokes divine power against enemies. Salvation requires divine intervention.

Historical Context

The title "LORD of hosts" emphasizes God's supreme command over heavenly armies (1 Samuel 17:45, Isaiah 6:3). When Israel faced overwhelming military threats, this title reminded them that heaven's armies surpass earthly powers. Elisha's servant saw this (2 Kings 6:17). Revelation depicts Christ leading heaven's armies (19:14). The title assures believers that God's resources exceed visible circumstances.
