

Psalms 81:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But my people would not hearken to my voice; and Israel would none of me.

Analysis

---

But my people would not hearken to my voice (וְלֹא-שָׁמַע עַמִּי לְקוֹלִי)—The emphatic my people intensifies the tragedy: not strangers but covenant children rejected their Father. Shama (hear, obey) appears throughout Deuteronomy as covenant loyalty's essential element. And Israel would none of me (lo avah li)—they 'desired not' or 'were not willing' toward their Redeemer.

This divine lament echoes throughout Scripture: Moses's warnings (Deuteronomy 32), the prophets' indictments (Isaiah 1:2-4, Jeremiah 7:23-26), and Christ's weeping over Jerusalem (Luke 19:41-44). The greatest tragedy isn't God's inability to save but human unwillingness to be saved. As Jesus said, 'You will not come to me that you might have life' (John 5:40).

Historical Context

Israel's wilderness generation epitomized stubborn rebellion: refusing to enter Canaan (Numbers 14), complaining against manna (Numbers 11), worshiping the golden calf (Exodus 32), and testing God at Meribah (Exodus 17). Despite seeing miracles, that generation died in the desert under judgment. Their children's history repeated the pattern, culminating in exile.

Study Questions

1. In what areas of life are you 'not hearkening' to God's clear voice, choosing self-will over His revealed will?
2. How does the phrase 'my people would not' expose that the problem is never God's unwillingness but ours?
3. What patterns of family or church 'wilderness wandering' result from generational refusal to obey God's voice?
