

Psalms 9:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

When he maketh inquisition for blood, he remembereth them:
he forgetteth not the cry of the humble.

Analysis

God makes 'inquisition for blood' - He investigates and avenges injustice and murder. The Hebrew 'darash damim' (seeks blood) emphasizes God's commitment to justice for the oppressed. He 'remembereth them' and 'forgetteth not the cry of the humble.' This assures victims that God sees, records, and will address all injustice. The 'humble' (Hebrew 'anaw' - afflicted, meek) have God's special attention. This anticipates Christ's identification with the suffering and His promise of ultimate justice.

Historical Context

Blood-guilt required avenging in Israel's legal system (Numbers 35). God's making inquisition for blood promised justice when human systems failed. The humble were often overlooked by earthly courts but never by God. This principle runs through Scripture - God as defender of the oppressed and powerless.

Study Questions

1. How does knowing God remembers injustice affect how you respond to suffering?
2. Are you humble enough to cry to God, or do you try to solve everything yourself?
