

Psalm 94:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For the LORD will not cast off his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance.

Analysis

For the LORD will not cast off his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance (בְּאַתְּ שָׁאַלְתָּה עַמּוֹ וְנַחֲלָתוֹ לֹא יָזַב)—The double negative intensifies covenant assurance. Natash (cast off/abandon) and azav (forsake/leave) together form an emphatic promise. Nachalah (inheritance) casts Israel not merely as God's possession but His treasured portion.

Paul quotes this in Romans 11:1-2 as proof God hasn't rejected ethnic Israel despite Christ's rejection. The psalmist's confidence rests not on Israel's faithfulness but Yahweh's covenant character—His reputation is bound to His people. Hebrews 13:5 applies this promise to all believers: 'I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.'

Historical Context

This verse addresses exile-level despair when it appeared Yahweh had abandoned His promises. The Babylonian captivity, destruction of the temple, and loss of land seemed to contradict God's covenant with Abraham and David. The psalm reasserts theological truth against emotional perception.
