

Psalms 97:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For thou, LORD, art high above all the earth: thou art exalted far above all gods.

Analysis

---

The phrase 'high above all the earth' (al-kol-ha'arets) establishes God's transcendent position. Being 'exalted far above all gods' doesn't concede other gods' existence but uses polemical language to assert Yahweh's incomparability. The Hebrew ma'od (exceedingly, very) intensifies the exaltation. This verse's absolute claims refute both polytheism and religious pluralism—there is no pantheon, only one supreme God. His supremacy is not one of degree but of kind—He alone is God.

Historical Context

In the ancient world of competing national deities, Israel's radical monotheism set them apart and formed the foundation for Christianity's exclusive truth claims.

Study Questions

1. How should God's absolute supremacy affect your response to religious pluralism's claim that all religions are equally valid?

2. In what areas of your life are you tempted to give other 'gods' (priorities, values) the allegiance due to God alone?
