

Psalm 99:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The LORD reigneth; let the people tremble: he sitteth between the cherubims; let the earth be moved.

Analysis

The declaration 'The LORD reigneth' (Yahweh malak) opens this third consecutive enthronement psalm, emphasizing God's kingship as central to worship. The call for people to 'tremble' (ragaz) indicates appropriate fear before the holy King. God 'sitteth between the cherubims' refers to the mercy seat in the Holy of Holies, where God's presence dwelled above the ark. This position demonstrates both God's transcendent holiness and His immanent presence with His people. The earth moving at His reign shows creation's response to divine sovereignty.

Historical Context

The ark of the covenant with its cherubim-adorned mercy seat represented God's throne in Israel, making His reign both theological truth and liturgical reality in temple worship.
