

Revelation 2:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

Analysis

Christ's hatred of Nicolaitan deeds reveals His holy intolerance of antinomianism—the false teaching that grace permits sinful license. Early church fathers (Irenaeus, Hippolytus) identify Nicolaitans with libertine practices mixing Christianity with pagan immorality. Reformed theology affirms that genuine faith produces sanctification; mere profession without transformation indicates false conversion. Christ's 'hatred' (Greek 'miseis') demonstrates that true love for God includes hatred of evil—not the sinner, but the sin that enslaves.

Historical Context

The Nicolaitan heresy likely advocated compromise with pagan practices to avoid persecution, including eating idol-meat and sexual immorality (Rev 2:14-15). In trade-guild dominated Ephesus, economic pressure tempted believers to participate in pagan feasts. The church's resistance pleased Christ, though other congregations tolerated this teaching.
