

Revelation 21:15

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he that talked with me had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

Analysis

The measuring rod of gold indicates the precision and value of New Jerusalem's dimensions. Measuring symbolizes God's ownership and sovereignty—He defines the city's extent and inhabitants. Gold represents purity and divine glory. The angel's measurement demonstrates that the new creation has definite, ordained form according to God's design. Reformed theology sees this as God's meticulous preparation of eternal dwelling for the elect. Unlike earthly cities with random growth, this city reflects perfect divine planning. Every measurement reveals intentional design.

Historical Context

Ancient cities were measured for taxation, building, or conquest purposes. Ezekiel's temple vision (Ezekiel 40-42) featured extensive measuring, establishing precedent for this imagery. The golden rod contrasts common reed measuring sticks, emphasizing the city's incomparable value. First-century readers would recognize measuring as establishing possession and purpose.
