

Romans 11:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded

Analysis

What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for—ho epitēdei (ὁ ἐπιτηδεῖ) refers to righteousness and covenant blessing. National Israel as a whole failed to obtain the goal pursued, because they pursued it by works (9:31-32). But the election hath obtained it—hē ekloge (ἡ ἐκλογή, "the elect") refers to the remnant chosen by grace. They obtained righteousness through faith in Christ.

And the rest were blinded (epōrōthēsan, ἐπωρώθησαν)—the verb means to harden, petrify, or make callous. The passive voice suggests divine agency (theological passive): God judicially hardened those who persistently rejected truth. This hardening is not arbitrary cruelty but a response to willful unbelief. Paul will quote Isaiah 29:10 and Psalm 69:22-23 (vv. 8-10) to show this hardening was prophesied. The remnant/hardening distinction explains first-century Israel: some believed (elect remnant), most rejected (judicially hardened).

Historical Context

By the late 50s AD, most synagogues had expelled Jewish believers in Jesus (John 9:22; 12:42). The majority of Israel did not recognize Jesus as Messiah, fulfilling prophetic patterns of remnant theology throughout Israel's history (Isaiah 6:9-10; 10:22-23).

Study Questions

1. How does the doctrine of election comfort believers while also sobering them regarding unbelief?
2. What is judicial hardening, and how does it differ from arbitrary divine cruelty?
3. How should we balance the mystery of election with genuine evangelistic urgency for those who are 'hardened'?
