

Romans 3:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;

Analysis

For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. The most famous verse in Paul's theodicy: pantes gar hēmarton kai hystereountai tēs doxēs tou theou (πάντες γὰρ ἥμαρτον καὶ ὑστεροῦνται τῆς δόξης τοῦ θεοῦ, "for all sinned and fall short of the glory of God"). Hamartanō (ἁμαρτάνω, "to sin")—aorist tense, likely referring to Adam's sin in which all sinned (5:12) as well as personal sins.

Hystereountai (ὑστεροῦνται, "fall short")—present tense: continuously lacking. Tēs doxēs tou theou (τῆς δόξης τοῦ θεοῦ, "the glory of God") is the divine image, the reflected glory humanity was created to bear (Genesis 1:26-27). We were made as glory-bearers but have become glory-deficients. Every human, without exception, fails to reflect God's character and fulfill our created purpose. This explains "no distinction" (v. 22)—all are equal in their failure.

Historical Context

Jewish theology emphasized that Israel possessed God's glory (shekinah) through the temple and Torah. Paul's declaration that Jews also lack God's glory was shocking. The glory departed (Ezekiel 10), and only Messiah can restore it (2 Corinthians 3:18, 4:6).

Study Questions

1. How do you "fall short of God's glory" in ways beyond mere moral failure—failing to reflect His image?
2. Why is the universal fact of sin (all have sinned) essential to the universal offer of grace?
3. What would it mean to live as a glory-bearer restored through Christ's righteousness?
