

Romans 5:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

Analysis

And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also (ἀλλὰ καὶ καυχώμεθα ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσιν)—the same verb 'boast/rejoice' now takes the startling object of tribulations (θλίψεσιν, thlipsesin), a term denoting crushing pressure, affliction, persecution. This is neither masochism nor Stoic resignation but eschatological confidence: present sufferings are birth pangs of coming glory (8:18).

Knowing that tribulation worketh patience—the participle εἰδότες (eidotes, 'knowing') indicates settled conviction, not mere speculation. The divine pedagogy proceeds: θλίψις (thlipsis, tribulation) produces ὑπομονή (hypomonē, patient endurance), not passive resignation but active perseverance. James 1:2-4 and 1 Peter 1:6-7 develop this same theology of sanctified suffering.

Historical Context

For the Roman church facing increasing hostility under Nero (who would launch systematic persecution in AD 64), Paul's theology of suffering was intensely practical. The empire valued conquest and glory through military might; Paul proclaimed glory through suffering with Christ. This inversion of worldly values echoed Jesus's teaching that losing one's life gains it (Mark 8:35) and His beatitudes pronouncing blessing on the persecuted (Matthew 5:10-12).

Study Questions

1. What prevents you from 'glorying in tribulations'—lack of faith in God's purposes or misunderstanding of suffering's role?
2. How can you distinguish between suffering that produces patience and suffering that results from foolishness or sin?
3. In what current trial might God be working to develop patient endurance in your character?
