

Romans 8:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

Analysis

But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you— Paul identifies the Spirit by His greatest work: raising Jesus from death. The same pneuma who generated resurrection life in Christ's crucified body dwells in believers. This is God the Father acting through God the Spirit—clear Trinitarian action. The present tense "dwell" (oikei) indicates permanent residence, not temporary visit.

He that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you (zōopoīēsei kai ta thnēta sōmata humōn)—Zōopoieō means "make alive," the same word used for Christ's resurrection (1 Corinthians 15:22). Ta thnēta sōmata ("mortal bodies") will be transformed into immortal resurrection bodies (1 Corinthians 15:42-44; Philippians 3:21). The Spirit who indwells now guarantees future glorification—He is the arrabōn, the down payment ensuring full inheritance (Ephesians 1:14).

Historical Context

The resurrection of the body was scandalous in Greek thought; Plato taught immortality of the soul but considered bodily existence the problem, not the solution. Paul's Jewish background affirmed bodily resurrection (Daniel 12:2; Job 19:26), but Christians went further: resurrection bodies modeled on Christ's glorious body (Philippians 3:21), transformed yet continuous with earthly bodies.

Study Questions

1. How does the Spirit's work in Christ's resurrection provide certainty for our future resurrection?
2. What's the difference between Greek immortality of the soul and Christian resurrection of the body?
3. How should the certainty of bodily resurrection affect how we care for and think about our physical bodies now?
