

Zechariah 1:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there red horses, speckled, and white.

Analysis

The first vision begins: 'I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there red horses, speckled, and white.' The night vision suggests divine revelation through dreams. The 'man' on the red horse likely represents the Angel of the LORD (pre-incarnate Christ, v. 11). Red may symbolize war/judgment; speckled (or brown/sorrel) and white suggest variety. Myrtle trees in the 'bottom' (valley) create the scene. This mysterious vision introduces angelic reconnaissance reporting world conditions to God.

Historical Context

Myrtle trees (Hebrew: hadas) grew in Palestine's valleys and produced fragrant leaves. They symbolized peace and divine favor (Isa. 41:19; 55:13). The bottom/valley setting suggests a secluded, protected place. Ancient Near Eastern kings sent reconnaissance scouts to assess conditions; this vision portrays heaven's similar intelligence gathering. The multiple horses suggest angelic agents reporting to the LORD's representative.

Study Questions

1. How does this vision of angelic reconnaissance assure us that God comprehensively knows world conditions?
2. What does the man on the red horse (likely Christ) standing among myrtle trees teach us about His presence with His people?
