

Zechariah 10:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they shall be as mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the LORD is with them, and the riders on horses shall be confounded.

Analysis

And they shall be as mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle (וְהָיוּ כְּגִבּוֹרִים בּוֹסִים בְּטִיט חוּצוֹת בְּמִלְחָמָה)—gibborim (mighty warriors) empowered by God trample enemies into mud, vivid imagery of total victory. And they shall fight, because the LORD is with them—divine presence ensures success. Immanuel ('God with us') theology pervades Scripture; presence, not numbers or strategy, guarantees victory.

And the riders on horses shall be confounded (וְהִבִּישׁוּ רֶכֶב־סוּסִים)—enemy cavalry, supposedly superior military technology, will be hovish (shamed/dismayed). This recalls Egyptian chariots in the Red Sea (Exodus 14:28) and anticipates Revelation's vision of Christ's conquering ride (Revelation 19:11-16). God levels advantages: mounted warriors fall before foot soldiers empowered by divine presence. This principle applies spiritually: the church overcomes 'not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD of hosts' (Zechariah 4:6).

Historical Context

Maccabean victories exemplified this—Jewish forces repeatedly defeated superior Seleucid armies including war elephants and cavalry. Natural explanations fail; only divine empowerment explains their success. This points forward to the church's spiritual victories over seemingly more powerful worldly opposition.
